Our Speakers

Paula Hall is a psychotherapist and author, and has been specialising in helping people affected by sex and pornography addiction for over 15 years.

Paula is widely recognised as the UK's leading expert in this field, and frequently speaks in the media as well as training other professionals.

Paula also campaigns for better education and social responsibility to protect others from falling into the sexual addiction trap. She believes that overcoming sex addiction requires compassion, commitment and courage, and she adopts these principles personally in her therapeutic approach. The recovery model that she has developed is now internationally recognised. Her publications include 'Confronting Porn: A comprehensive guide for Christians struggling with porn and churches wanting to help them'.

Justin Marsh is a qualified relationship therapist and holds specialisms in both Sex Addiction and Autistic Spectrum Disorder. Justin has a warm and friendly approach to therapy, is able to put people at ease and is confident in the potential that clients have within themselves to achieve active and ongoing recovery. Justin facilitates recovery programmes for both men and women struggling with addictive and compulsive sexual behaviours, and for their partners. He has developed the successful online video conferencing recovery groups, training and supervising group facilitators, as well as continuing his work with individuals and couples.

About this Pathway Day

Paula and Justin will explain what it means to be addicted to pornography, the cycle of addiction and the biological and psychological aspects of addiction. They will talk about the shame that people feel about their use of pornography and its impact on their lives, as well as on the lives of their partners. Paula and Justin will also share a Christian perspective on pornography addiction, and unpack some tools that can be used on the journey to overcoming addiction.
